TRG “The Royal Group” Rebrands to Reflect Strategic Growth and Expanded Capabilities

[June 16, 2026] TRG, one of the nation’s largest independent corrugated packaging and display manufacturers, today announced a company-wide rebranding initiative that reflects its accelerated growth and continued investment in advanced manufacturing technology. Moving forward, the company will use the brand name TRG Packaging and Display Solutions.

Trusted. Responsive. Game-changing.

The rebrand marks an exciting new chapter for TRG as the company continues to evolve into a more interconnected, innovative, and solutions-focused organization. Over the past 10 years, TRG has completed 12 acquisitions, including five in the past year alone. These recent additions have expanded TRG’s manufacturing footprint and strengthened its ability to serve customers with 30+ locations across key markets.

Bringing operations together under one unified brand provides greater clarity around the company’s national scale and portfolio of packaging and display solutions. While the brand is evolving, the legacies built by each location will endure with a seamless transition, including the customer relationships, local expertise, and commitment to responsive service that customers have trusted for years.

At the same time, TRG is making one of the most significant technology investments in company history with the installation of the first BHS Jetliner Xceed digital preprint press in North America. The investment represents a transformational step forward in how TRG will produce and deliver high-impact graphics across its growing manufacturing network.

By combining centralized digital preprint production with its expanding plant footprint, TRG is creating a more agile and connected manufacturing model where every facility can support high-graphic packaging with greater speed, flexibility, and efficiency. The company’s rebrand reflects not only the scale of its growth, but also the future-focused mindset driving the organization forward.

“This new name brings together the full strength of our organization under one unified identity,” said Kevin Miller, TRG Packaging and Display Solutions CEO, “We’ve built a strong reputation as a trusted, responsive partner for our customers, and as we continue to invest and grow our network, we're positioning ourselves to deliver game-changing solutions that help customers move faster, operate smarter, and grow alongside us.”

The transition to TRG Packaging and Display Solutions reflects the company's ongoing commitment to growth, operational excellence, and innovation. With this milestone, TRG is well-positioned to continue delivering value for customers, stakeholders, and the packaging and display industry.
